Project Title: Needlepoint Website

I'd like to build this site as multiple pages, rather than a long, single-page website. The navigation would appear across the top, using clean typography and a soft color palette inspired by embroidery threads and canvas textures. The site would feature rich visuals of needlepoint designs, materials, and techniques, along with historical context and modern applications.

- Home/Page Introduction – Introduce what needlepoint is, its timeless appeal, and how it combines craftsmanship, creativity, and patience. Feature a slideshow of beautiful finished works to capture the viewer's attention.
- History of Needlepoint – Explore the origins of needlepoint from ancient Egyptian canvas work to European tapestry traditions and its revival as a modern decorative art form.
- Techniques and Materials – Explain the tools and supplies needed, including different types of canvas, needles, threads, and stitches. Provide diagrams and short videos demonstrating common techniques.
- Patterns and Inspiration – Showcase examples of traditional and contemporary needlepoint designs, with downloadable patterns or design ideas. This section could also feature interviews with artists and modern needlepoint designers.
- Needlepoint in Modern Culture – Discuss how needlepoint has evolved into both an art form and a mindfulness practice. Include examples of how it's used in interior design, fashion, and DIY communities.
